mayor's message

Every year the City of Cockburn organises a series of concerts, picnics and events for local residents and ratepayers – our Summer of Fun.

This year, it's bigger and better than ever. Our three local concerts feature tributes to ABBA, Queen and Countdown, and the Oz Big Band will play jazz, swing and the big band numbers that have become the favourites of every generation.

Our Regional Concert in early March features three legends of Aussie rock: Glen Shorrock, James Reyne and Joe Camiliri, supported by a 12 piece band.

In addition, we've already had our annual Teddy Bears' Picnic, the Rotary Spring Fair and the Seniors Ball – and next week Manning Park hosts the Celebrating Ability event, which is always a fun family day out.

It's shaping up to be a terrific summer in Cockburn – I hope to see you at one of our upcoming events.

As always, if there is anything you think that we can do to improve our city, please don't hesitate to contact me, or one of your local ward councillors – their contact details are listed later in the Soundings.

Contact Mayor Stephen Lee on, 9411 3577 or slee@cockburn.wa.gov.au.

air-conditioners can drive your neighbours crazy!

During the hot summer months many people will turn to their air-conditioners to cool down their homes. Some air-conditioners, however, are extremely noisy and, if they aren't maintained properly and located in the right spot, they can seriously annoy your neighbours.

There are regulations that govern the noise levels allowed at your property. If sound levels from your air-conditioner exceed those stated in the regulations, and become a nuisance to your neighbours, the City's Environmental Health Officers may be forced to issue infringement notices for unreasonable noise, or even instruct that the unit not be used until it is repaired or relocated.

Most air-conditioners sold in Australia have a noise-rating label – to ensure that you don't have any problems with noise, you should take the following steps before installing an air-conditioner:

- Buy the quietest unit you can.
- Ensure the installer is aware of the noise regulation requirements.
- Discuss the appropriate location with your installer.
- Locate equipment as far as possible from neighbours.
- Once the air-conditioner is in position insist that the installer provides you with a guarantee that the set up complies with all relevant regulations and standards.
- Contact the City's Health Service for guidance.

history @ spearwood library

Frontline Policing in Western Australia

Robert Primrose served in the Australian Police Force for 36 years and rose to the rank of Superintendent. For many of those years he worked alone on the frontline in outback Gwalia, small wheat-belt towns and the suburban regions of Western Australia. He has written a rich account of his experience in providing first response in a self-published book "Frontline policing: on the beat and in the bush (with Mister Bob)"

Robert will recount some of the stories in his book and talk about the sometimes difficult and dangerous conditions of his work. In addition he will give insight into the sometimes difficult process of self-publishing.

children's week celebrations

The Coolbellup Community Centre put on food and fun on Saturday, October 21 for the residents of Cockburn in celebration of Children's Week (16 Oct - 22 Oct).

The event aimed to bring together the community for some wholesome family fun. There was a fabulous display by the Spineless Wonders Exhibition and free activities for the kids, a real life fire truck which kids could not get enough of, they even got to squirt the hose!

There was a hands-on art and craft stall that had all the kids making sparkling jewellery for the whole family as well as colouring-in to their heart's content.

So whilst their children played, parents were able to sit under a shady tree and enjoy some lunch. At the end of the event, children were all played-out, parents and neighbours had made new friends and the day was a huge success!

crematorium

Cockburn Mayor Stephen Lee says that residents of Cockburn should take a moment to think about the heritage of the area, after the National Trust announced that it was listing the crematorium and cemetery at Woodman Point last month.

Mr Lee says that, despite the common perception of Cockburn as part of the fast developing 'new south', the area has a rich history that needs to be preserved.

"This is Australia's oldest crematorium, and it's probably also the first one built in the country - people don't always associate that kind of history with the City of Cockburn, but it's there," said Mr Lee.

"We need to make sure that we work hard to preserve our history."

The crematorium and cemetery is part of the Woodman Point Quarantine Station, which was first used as a quarantine site in 1852, when troops aboard the Anna Robertson were detained there to help prevent an outbreak of whooping cough.

The Woodman Point Quarantine Station was also the State's leprosarium, the official bubonic plague isolation hospital and crematorium, and a significant place of death for service personnel infected with influenza following World War 1.

teddy bears' picnic 2006

Cockburn children came out in their thousands for the City of Cockburn's Annual Teddy Bears' Picnic.

Kids from all around Cockburn came with Teddy Bears in tow, ready to have a ball. They were treated to lots of free activities including tractor train rides; face painting, bouncy castles, pony rides and animal farm.

The Kangaroo Creek Gang had the kids on their feet, singing and dancing and many were lucky enough to have their photo taken with the characters from the Gang.

Teds even got a bit of TLC by visiting the Teddy Bear Hospital and getting the all clear from the nurses on hand and a certificate. Other Teds were groomed and fluffed by the ladies from the Spearwood Library.

At the end of the day there were some very tired faces from all the fun that was had at the Teddy Bears' Picnic.
