SOUNDINGS

April and autumn heralded the state governments decision on FRIARS and with that decision a lot of anguish for many residents in our council region. We are not surprised with this result, but we are disappointed.

The submission made by the City of Cockburn presented to the government carefully researched and conceived planning strategies as alternatives.

Community members put together another submission also suggesting alternatives and it is disappointing that there doesn't seem to have been any consideration given to either of these submissions or the alternatives offered.

Obviously within our region we have land which is already zoned for industrial use and further development within existing guidelines would be desirable for all concerned. However resumption of land from a considerable number of people who have elected a rural lifestyle is a totally unjust outcome.

The City will continue to oppose the FRIARS plan in its present form and encourage residents to continue lobbying the government through their local member, with their concerns.

As we go to print with this issue of Cockburn Soundings, the report and recommendations of the Douglas inquiry will be tabled in parliament. It is an important time for the City of Cockburn and we will keep you informed at all stages of the process.

The transcripts of the hearings are still available on the council's website. It is probable that the size of the report will preclude it being available from the website but you will be able to access a copy at either Spearwood or Coolbellup library and at the council administration office in Spearwood.

BEELIAR RESIDENTS ACTION GROUP

City of Cockburn has a number of Community and Progress Associations. These groups are formed by the local residents to tackle local community issues in their area.

The Beeliar Residents Action Group (BRAG) is now being formed in the Beeliar Heights area, which has the development name of Panorama Gardens.

BRAG has already been successful in securing funds from the City of Cockburn Community Grants Scheme to help get the Group established. The money will be used to cover costs such as incorporation, advertising, stationary, phone costs and the production of a newsletter.

The last community meeting they had attracted about 30 - 40 residents. The people who attended listed and prioritised the main issues affecting them as residents. Two main issues were Security and a Community Centre.

They will continue to meet the third Wednesday of each month at 7.00pm at the Sales Office. Though if attendance continues to be in the high numbers, this may shift to the Primary School.

Phone Yvonne on 9414 6301 for further information.

CARING FOR THE ENVIRONMENT AND YOUR CAT

The City of Cockburn is lucky to have many bushland and wetland areas which support a wealth of native wildlife.

Unfortunately, many native animals such as bandicoots and possums, have drastically declined in number or been completely lost largely, due to predation by introduced animals particularly foxes and cats.

Small animals like insects, lizards, frogs and birds are vital elements of bushland and wetland ecosystems. Frogs and lizards provide food for bandicoots and native birds. Birds are pollinators of many plants. Insects and other invertebrates are a food source, pollinators and they help break-down wastes in bushlands.

It's estimated that about one in three Australian households have at least one cat, and studies have found that a domestic cat can kill about thirty native birds, reptiles and mammals a year.

"The future of many native animals in our natural areas relies on your responsible pet management".

Together with feral cats, domestic cats have a great impact on our native wildlife. Cats also carry at least two diseases which severely affect many native animals.

The City of Cockburn has produced a pamphlet explaining some of the risks cats can have on the environment and some precautionary measures cat owners can take to minimise these risks.

For a copy of the pamphlet, phone the City of Cockburn Environmental Services Department on 9411 3444.

CHANGES TO COCKBURN BUS SERVICE

Transperth, in partnership with Southern Coast Transit, is in the process of completing a substantial upgrade of bus services in the Rockingham area, and these changes have affected the bus services in the Cockburn area.

Some of the changes that have occurred as part of the upgrade include:

- New bus service route 920, between Fremantle and Rockingham, which has replaced the 113, 119 and 120 services. The new service has limited stops, including new stops on Gilmore Avenue, specific stops at South Fremantle, Hamilton Hill, Spearwood, Munster and Wattleup. The latest type of air conditioned low floor accessible buses are used on the new route.
- The 166 route, Perth to Rockingham route, has been renumbered to 866 and has been improved to City Link standard.
- The 116 route has been adjusted to travel via Gilmore Avenue, and the new Kwinana Hub shopping centre.
- Route 117 has been replaced by a combination of routes 126 and 168, and route 115 has been renumbered 168.
- A new bus station will be built opposite the Kwinana Hub Shopping Centre, which will replace the existing Kwinana Bus station, and this has necessitated major changes to the local "feeder" routes serving the Kwinana area.
- Local routes will be better coordinated with Perth, Fremantle, Rockingham and Booragoon routes to minimise waiting times for transferring passengers.

The revised and enhanced network will operate seven days a week, and the practise of employing different "combination" feeder routes during the evening and weekends has been discontinued.

Overall, the altered and new services will run more often during the day, and weekend and public holiday services should be dramatically improved.

For further information regarding timetables and routes please contact Christine Morrow at Transperth on 9320 9552.

PUPPIES ... PUPPIES ... PUPPIES!

Early in April City of Cockburn rangers were called out to Hamilton Hill to pick up a stray dog. When Ranger Belinda arrived to pick up the dog it was obvious that she was heavily pregnant. After an examination, a local vet confirmed that she was not only pregnant but that the arrival of at least six puppies was imminent.

When the dog (who has been nicknamed Gypsy) was not claimed the rangers were faced with a difficult choice. Euthanasia would mean not only the death of dog with a beautiful friendly nature but also the death of the unborn puppies.

A call for help went out of the City's email system asking if anyone would be willing to temporarily house the dog while she gave birth and the puppies until they were old enough to be weaned. Environmental Health Officer, Joanne Abbiss volunteered, and a collection from staff raised funds to subsidise expenses.

Now we are looking for homes for the six puppies and also (mum) Gypsy. The puppies will not be vaccinated or wormed; that will be the new owners responsibility but the City will reduce the registration fee for the period through to the 31st of October to only $15. Total cost of the puppies will be $25 and the cost of the Mum will be $35.

Anyone interested in having one of these cuddly little balls or the beautiful placid-natured mum, call the Rangers Clerk, Joanne on 9411 3403.

SAFER CITY PROJECT FIGHTING CRIME

A community needs survey conducted throughout the City of Cockburn highlighted several issues as of extreme importance to the community - Crime & Safety regarded as the highest.

The City of Cockburn subsequently acted on this and the Safer City Project was born.

The first stage in the project involves a Safer Seniors campaign, including an Identification Program whereby aged homeowners and people with disabilities are provided with various means of identifying their property.

This free service differs from other programs in that a trained officer attends a home by appointment to do the ID marking for the customer.

Nick Deane has a police clearance, is the Neighbourhood Watch Coordinator and is our man for the job.

Nick Deane

Making our community a safer place

Nick will mark, identify and record valuables that previously could not be marked by using engraving, UV markers and using a digital camera, Nick will provide the homeowner with photographs of property such as jewellery and antiques on a standard floppy disc.

Nick will also carry out a home audit whereby he will check home safety features & identify any hazards throughout the home. He will make recommendations on how to reduce the hazard & will refer the homeowner to appropriate people to help with any areas of risk eg. Neighbourhood Watch, Police Crime Prevention, Safety House or even Rotary for fire alarms.

If the first stage of the Safer City Program is successful then the service will be offered to the wider community starting with crime hotspots and expanding from there.

Any Senior citizens or residents with disabilities who would like to have Nick visit their home, phone, Safer City on 9314 3001.

ENVIRONMENTAL UPDATE

STRANO JOINED BY STRATFORD

Paddy Strano &
Kirsty Stratford

Kirsty Stratford is the latest addition to the City of Cockburn's well respected Environmental team.

Kirsty comes to the City straight from a position as the Environmental Officer for Western Mining, based about 400km from Kalgoorlie.

Needless to say, the lifestyle at the City of Cockburn appealed to Kirsty after living in such isolation on the mine site.

She is looking forward to tackling environmental issues throughout the City of Cockburn and is excited about working with the residents - something she didn't have the opportunity to do in her previous position.

Kirsty is currently completing her Masters in Environmental Government and Local Law. It was this course which first interested Kirsty in Local Government.

Kirsty can be contacted at the City of Cockburn on 9411 3441.

NEIGHBOURHOOD WATCH AND SAFETY HOUSE ACTIVE IN ATWELL

Parents throughout Atwell and Banjup can rest easy when sending their children to school thanks to a committee of residents who have brought the Safety House and Neighbourhood Watch programs to their community.

Gillian Anderson, secretary for the Safety House committee, said it the programs will be up and running within weeks. "We already have 50 applicants to become Safety Houses. Each of these are interviewed, assessed and cleared by the police before they can become an official safety house."

"As soon as the police clearances are received we will begin our education program throughout the community, starting with a school assembly, at the Atwell Primary School, on June 20th to educate the children about Safety Houses and how to use them. We will hopefully have a couple of the West Coast Eagles at the assembly and the school choir will sing."

SOUTH LAKE LEISURE CENTRE

INFANT SWIM CLASSES

CAN YOUR CHILD AFFORD TO MISS OUT?

If you have an infant aged between 4 months and 21/2 years, you owe it to them to find out about the South Lakes Leisure Centre Parent-Child classes at the Parent Information Evening on Tuesday 16th May 2000, at 6.30pm.

The staff at South Lakes Leisure Centre know how important it is to ensure that you and your child have the knowledge and experience to help yourselves in any water environment.

They know it is important for parents to share this learning process and to be 100% satisfied that they are enrolling in the right program to ensure their child receives the highest quality teaching available.

The information evenings are fun, informative and will help you to understand more about the classes, what activities are done and why.

The, nationally accredited and recognised, Parent-child classes are endorsed by the Royal Life Saving Society and Swim Australia. All teachers hold Austswim Teacher of Swimming and Water Safety qualifications.

Parent-child classes teach water familiarisation, breath control, submerging, independent swimming, climbing out of the water and bonding.

The classes teach you to understand your child's reaction to the water, and how to encourage and stimulate their learning process through songs, praise, rewards, perseverance and patience.

Fun activities such as singing, playing with toys, blowing bubbles and games ensure that you and your child will have a great time while learning techniques such as kicking, breath control, propulsion and jumping in and climbing out the pool.

The children are taught how to use the pool wall to make their way to the stairs, how to float on their back and how to balance in the pool using the stairs.

While the classes cannot 'drown proof' your child, it has been recognised that children who are happy and confident in the water will often be able to think themselves out of a difficult situation and are less likely to panic.

It is never too soon to begin teaching your children, as the younger the child, the more readily they accept the water giving them a head start for basic swimming skills.

Phone the South Lake Leisure Centre on 9414 3003, and book for the parent information evening on Tuesday 16th May at 6.30pm.

COMMUNITY GRANT MEANS A HAPPIER PLAYTIME FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Koorilla Primary School are the proud owners of newly installed playground equipment suitable for students with a disability.

The playground equipment features handrails, ramps and other accessories which make it accessible to students with disabilities.

Mr Rob Dedman, Koorilla Primary School Principal, said the new playground has proven very popular with the students. Ms Sharni Graham, Principal of the Koorilla Ed Support Centre agreed, saying "the new equipment encourages students with disabilities to join in the playground activities with other students".

Koorilla Primary School wrote to the City of Cockburn applying for funding for the playground equipment. Through the Community Grants Program, the City of Cockburn was able to put $2000.00 towards the site costs for the playground equipment.

Watching the joy on the students faces as they played on the equipment after the grand unveiling on the 27th of March, truly made the money spent well worthwhile.

Mark Jones before the big chop!

The Cancer Foundation of Western Australia launched "Me No Hair Day" on Thursday April 6th, 2000.

The Foundation sent out a challenge - Go Bald & raise money for research into mens cancers.

Mark Jones, a valued employee for the City of Cockburn, took up the challenge and braved the clippers in an effort to do his bit for men's cancer research.

Jonesy kept a brave face throughout the ordeal, although a slight quiver was noticed when the razor was presented to the honorary hairdressers!

City of Cockburn employees; Paula Johns & Mia Collard play 'hairdresser for-a-day' on the quivering client.

AHHHHH!
Jonesy tries to remember this is all for a good cause!!

However, Mark survived, not even a nick to show for his bravery. First in line to get his head shaved next year, Mark encourages everyone to support this important cause.

HEALTHY LIVING..

It's a fact of life these days that at sometime we may come across a syringe. Whilst the risk of catching HIV, Hepatitis B or C is very low as the viruses do not survive very long outside the human body, a needle prick can be a nasty and frightening experience. So what should you do?

It is important to treat syringes with the utmost care and tell your children to never try and pick them up. If they find one they should immediately tell an adult.

If you find a syringe, don't be alarmed -

- * Pick up the syringe by the plunger end, never the point end.
- * Place into a container with a secured lid ie; plastic bottle.
- * Place container into a bin.
- * Advise local council where you found it.

DO NOT

- * Try to replace the plastic protective cover.
- * Touch the sharp end.
- * Let children touch or play with the syringe.
- * Unnecessarily carry it around.
- * Place syringes into toilets or stormwater drains.
- * Place needles and syringes into glass or aluminium cans.

If you are still concerned about the removal of a needle or syringe, advise the City of Cockburn Health section on 9411 3595 and someone will assist in the removal ASAP.

SMOKE FROM DOMESTIC FIREPLACES

A Perth haze study by the Department of Environmental Protection and CSIRO found that incorrectly operated wood heaters were the main source of Perth's haze (along with vehicle emissions).

Haze is significant threat to the communities health, seen as a factor causing respiratory problems. However there are some measures we can take to help minimise the effect our fireplaces are having on our health:

- * Avoid using green firewood. The sale of green firewood has been banned.
- * All new wood heaters must comply with AS4013, which are more efficient, effective and produce less smoke. Check for attached ID plate.
- * Store wood undercover & keep dry. Only burn well seasoned wood.
- * Burn Bright - get fire as hot as possible before adding bigger logs to reduce the smoke. Start with kindling and air control knob on full. Don't overload with logs, just gradually add wood as needed. Aim to have bright swirling flames and red glowing embers with little to no smoke coming out of the flue.
- * Do not shut down flue overnight. Let fire burn down overnight. Insulated houses will keep in the heat until the morning.
- * Clean chimney / flue regularly.

Aboriginal Family Outreach Service

Moorditj Yoka Aboriginal Family Outreach Service has moved into the Coolbellup Community Centre in Cordelia Avenue, Coolbellup.

It is a free service to families and individuals living within the City of Cockburn, whose lives are affected by family violence.

Funded by Family & Children's Services and the City of Cockburn, the agency is unique in that it provides culturally appropriate support, information, advice and counselling to Aboriginal women and their families.

The Co-ordinator Shirley Voss says the aim of Moorditj Yoka, which is Noongah for 'strong woman', is to assist women to develop increased knowledge and skills thereby enabling them to be more informed of their options. In this way women can become more self-determining and independent.

Shirley has been very busy since the agency started in December 1999. By canvassing other relevant organisations and actively working in the Aboriginal community.

Shirley is developing a steady client base, consisting of women, their partners and their children.

An Outreach worker will shortly be appointed to further enhance the services already provided.

Plans to run workshops and regular programs for women are currently underway and will soon be advertised locally.

Shirley also invites members of the community to help form a Network Committee as the finds community input a valuable asset.

Local Art Attracts Attention...

● Attract is a non-profit organisation, promoting the sale of original Western Australian artwork, primarily through retail stores.

The idea is to actively advertise and market original works coordinated into individual rooms with the stores own furnishings and manchester.

Although well known artists have been able to hang their works for sale in retail stores for some time now, this opportunity was not readily available to unknown or new artists, nor was the work actively marketed.

Three women - Debra Lane, Sue Spurling and Mary Thomas, all Fine Artists and Graphic Designers, formed the Association from the offer by Peta Gilbert - the proprietor of the bedding department at Harvey Norman, O'Connor, to provide wall space to accomodate the exhibitions.

John Blakely is a local artist from South Lakes who is involved with Art Attract. He is a painter in watercolours and specialises in Australian birdlife. His paintings are very detailed & seem to jump from the canvas, a brilliant image of Australian birdlife.

Johns works are being exhibited, for sale, at Harvey Norman, O'Connor until the end of June.

For further information on Art Attract or John Blakely phone Debra Lane on 9414 9412.

IMM CHALLENGE

The Institute of Municipal Management each year conducts a Management Challenge. Individual councils are invited to put together a team of six people who are then pitted against other councils in a day-long challenge.

There is some advance preparation required but most of the action takes place on the day. Team members barely get a chance to think as they are faced with one demanding management issue after another in a fictitious council.

The team is judged on:

- their preparation
- how they perform as a team
- the results of the task
- how the team performs under stress and
- how they interact with the other teams.

This year the City of Cockburn team included: Joanne Abbiss (Environmental Health Officer), Robert Avard (Manager, Community Services), Carolyn Button (Customer Service Manager),

In summing up the results the IMM said whilst it is a competitive event and a winner must be declared the primary purpose is for management skill development and to provide participants with a live learning opportunity.

The City of Cockburn's team performed very well overall and extremely well in a couple of areas. One was a joint presentation with the Kalgoorlie-Boulder team on "Giving Effective Feedback".

Andrew Cullen (Manager, IT Services), Dennis Doak (Environmental Health Officer) and Jemma Rock (Human Resource Officer).

And they performed well coming in third in the state.

The team was also congratulated for acting well as a team & being supportive of each other & reacting well under stress.

THE ORDER OF AUSTRALIA

It is appropriate that in this year 2000 we are celebrating 25 years of the Australian Honours system.

The Australian honours system rewards the outstanding achievements and contributions of extraordinary Australians in a diverse range of fields and areas of endeavour.

It is about recognising those people in the community whose service and contributions have had the effect of making a significant difference to Australian life or, more broadly, to humanity at large.

New nomination forms have been released for the Order of Australia. Copies of the forms are available at the City of Cockburn Offices.
